

2327
0836

Joseph Aaron Mylar Barn

Because Wallsburg was an early settling place for the pioneers of Wasatch County, they have many very old barns. This barn at 1937 South 1300 E. in Wallsburg was built by Joseph Aaron Mylar in the early 1900's. He and his wife Rebecca Young were married in 1888. They purchased the property from the Nuttalls, and built the barn there. They are the ~~parents~~ parents of Rebecca and Dave Cordner, the next owners of the barn. David Cordner repaired the barn and put on a new roof in about 1960-1965. He was a perfectionist according to his daughter Rhea Carlson, and really put that barn into fine order.

The barn was built of pine to store hay, and it is still being used by Dale and Rhea Carlson to store hay for their animals: Cows, horses, and sheep.

Information from Rhea Carlson

Joseph Wilson Miller Barn

Because Washington was an early settling place for the pioneers of Washington County they have many very old barns. This barn at 1937 South 1500 E. Washington was built by Joseph Aston Miller in the early 1900's. He and his wife Robert's young were married in 1882.
They purchased the property from the Millers and built the barn there. They are the great grandparents of Robert and Dave Corbin.
The next owner of the barn, David Corbin, repaired the barn and put on a new roof in about 1950-1952. It was a perfect house according to his daughter, Karen Corbin, and really put that barn into fine order.

The barn was built of pine to store hay and it is still being used by Dale and Karen Corbin to store hay for their animals. Cows, horses and sheep.

Information from Karen Corbin